

Most Consistent Student Award

The class of A207-2-W34H-A has voted
Thuta Zaw
as the most consistent student in
A207 Physics

Tan Kay Yew
_____
Tan Kay Yew

8 February 2011

Date

Most Consistent Student in A207-2-W34H– Thuta Zaw

- He is oftenly the best in the module and also he helped us alot.
- This is because his results really prove that he is the most consistent student.
- He is always able to solve the problem statements and know how to apply all the formulaes.
- He has been very consistent for me because I feel that every week, he will do the going further even if the facilitator has not asked us to do but Thuta himself will do because he is used to it and wants to challenge himself to test his understanding.
- He never fails to impress in every lesson of A207,by coming out with different explanations and solutions so that everyone could understand better.Also,A207 is a subject which he is good in,therefore being consistent should be the way.
- His performance in each class is very consistent because he is doing his job in answering the worksheet questions presentation slides and understanding the problem.
- This is because, he has been consistently doing well in daily grades and do not give up easily no matter what the challenges are. He will seek help from others and at the same time render help when others are in need.
- Because of the consistency in his work and showing other that he is the most hardworking student around. See his grade is also a consistent having an A grade. He even helps others when they needed help without saying no his kindness to us really help our class in making the class bonding more stronger.
- Because he is constant in being the best at his work. Most of the students will consult Thuta when we have problems. He not only do his own work but he still help us to understand further without fail every single problem from the time that we know his talent and also when we can get close to him.
- Obviously, he always does well in his work every week.
- He always helps other classmates in maths and physics modules and has the prior knowledge so shares the ideas with other teammates.
- He have been really helpful in everyway because he is really nice and trying to answer every question that we have.
- He is really good in certain subject and he can explain it in a very detailed way although sometimes I cannot really understand but he still manage to help me to explain it in a simple way. His result we can also see through daily performance.